

Former Resident Added to Staff Of Provo Tech.

Lee J. Morris, a native of Heber City, will join the faculty of Utah Technical College at Provo as an instructor in machine shop this fall, President Wilson W. Sorensen announced today.

Mr. Morris comes to the school with an excellent background as a working machinist in industry and with top schooling to prepare him for the trade, President Sorensen said.

He will succeed Roy Despain, who retired last spring after 30 years on the school faculty, and who now has the status of instructor emeritus to be utilized in case of special need.

Mr. Morris comes from three years in industry as a machinist for St. Regis Paper Corporation of Salt Lake City, Kenway Engineering of Bountiful and the Brown Equipment Corporation of Coalville. His schooling in the trade began with his certificate of proficiency from the Utah Technical College at Provo and graduation from the Utah State University at Logan in industrial education with a bachelor degree in 1962 and a masters in 1966. He also obtained a vocational certificate at Western Michigan University in metals technology.

His experience also includes teaching for eight years at the Granite High School as a machine shop instructor.

In commenting on his new post and the opportunities offered in machine shop at Utah Tech, Mr. Morris said: "Machine shop is basic to all trades. A person who has a good background in basic machine shop will be able to get a better job in his field. For the person who qualifies as a good machinist, the opportunities for employment are virtually unlimited. The equipment for machine shop training at Utah Tech is commensurate with that used in most local machine shops, and the student will get a good preparation here for the trade."
